Short story (2016)

“For example, I might want to express my great respect and fascination towards electric eels.

Electric eels.

It is only natural that when people (with a conscience and all) found electric eels or Sloane’s viperfish or Sarracenia flava, they had to conceive some sort of Great Mind of the Universe that designed and engineered them. He must have a Great Mind, because we have little minds and we can only design and engineer so much.”
